79 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
Sergt. Jessop showed gallantry in action, in the vicinity of Fresnes, by displaying remarkable coolness while in command of a platoon when under heavy bombardment from the enemy, maintaining his position and aiding greatly in the repelling of the raid sent over against his position.

Distinguished Service Cross
Near Montfaucon, France, Sept. 28, 1918.
While on his way to the dressing station for treatment, hearing a call for a volunteer to carry an important message from Brigade Headquarters to a regiment which was being pressed back, Private Jones volunteered and carried the message through a terrific intervening enemy barrage, and as a result of his courageous actions reinforcements arrived at a critical time.

Distinguished Service Medal

In charge of the Military Police School at Autun, France, a position of great responsibility, due to his ability and energy, hundreds of officers and enlisted men were trained as military police for the Provost Marshal General's Department, and were afterwards distributed throughout the American Expeditionary Forces. His work was conspicuous for its thoroughness and important results. He rendered services of much value to the United States.

War Dept Citation for Gallantry in Action

North of Verdun, France, October 9-30, 1918.

As forward liaison officer between division headquarters, 29 Division, and the forward elements of the division he exhibited great fortitude, disregard for his own safety, and superb devotion to duty. On October 15, 1918, all wires to the rear having been cut, he voluntarily carried a message from the 116th Infantry post of command to division headquarters passing through gas-filled woods and across an area under heavy concentration of enemy artillery fire.

AEF Meritorious Service Certificate

For services with Insp General's Dept 29th Division American Expeditionary Forces.

French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)

An officer of great valor. He volunteered to occupy a very responsible post near the front lines which was under continual fire of the enemy and also rendered the most distinguished services during the operations north of Verdun in October, 1918.

Distinguished Service Cross
Near Verdun, France, Oct. 8, 1918. While his platoon was being held up by machine-gun fire he voluntarily left his position and, crawling through intense machine-gun fire, he single-handed captured 2 machine guns, killing 4 of the enemy, and taking both crews.
French Military Medal }
French Croix de Guerre (Palm) }
A soldier of admirable courage. His platoon having been held up, he spontaneously went forward and crawling along under an intense machine-gun fire, captured two of the guns, killing or taking prisoner the crews.

5 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
Commanding Machine Gun Company, 61st Infantry, in the attack on Cote St. Germaine and Dion Devant Dun, November 6, 1918, displayed exceptional bravery and leadership in keeping his machine guns up with the advancing lines, thereby greatly assisting the advance of the infantry. Captain Jones further showed excellent judgment and devotion to duty by personally supervising the disposition of his guns for defense, which resulted in repelling violent counter attack on the Cote St. Germaine.

79 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action

On the night of September 17th, 1918, Sergeant Jordan's platoon came under heavy shell fire, being their first. Sergeant Jordan, by his marked coolness in action by moving about from man to man and encouraging them while under this fire, rendered valuable assistance, maintaining the platoon intact and in their position prepared to meet any attack that might be made upon them.

1 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
For conspicuous conduct and gallant leadership while in command of Company F, 18th Infantry, during the occupation of the Villers-Tournelle Sector, France, April 24 to June 2, 1918. His company during this period was constantly under fire from the enemy machine gun and artillery and his courageous devotion to duty and utter disregard for personal danger was an inspiration to the men under his command. His work as Company commander during the battle of Cantigny in relieving a unit of the 28th Infantry and the consolidation of captured terrain was a model of efficiency. Captain Kelly was seriously wounded and evacuated June 10, 1918, while performing the duties of his office.
French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
From April 24 to June 2, 1918, in the sector of Villers-Tournelle, he displayed exceptional bravery and heroism. Under continual bombardment he stimulated his men by his coolness, his absolute contempt for danger and his sense of duty. During the attack of Cantigny he conducted with consummate science the operations to relieve the 28th Infantry and the organization of the conquered ground. Was severely wounded on June 10.

Distinguished Service Medal
As Chief of Air Service, American Expeditionary Forces, by his executive ability, clear conception, and broad mental grasp, he was able to overcome many obstacles and placed the training of Air Service personnel on an efficient basis. Later, as Director of Military Aeronautics in the United States, he successfully organized and accomplished the training of personnel for overseas service with a resulting high degree of morale throughout the Air Service and the efficient performance of duties at the front. Serving at the same time as a member of the Advisory Committee and Joint Army and Navy Airship Board, he rendered services of inestimable value to the Government in positions of great responsibility.

Wounded slightly 3/18/18 and severely 10/3/18
Distinguished Service Cross
Near St. Etienne-a-Arnes, France, Oct. 3-4, 1918.
Although severely gassed by a gas shell which burst in the trench beside him Lieutenant Kibler retained command of his company and led it forward in a difficult night attack, penetrating the enemy's line to a depth of 2 kilometers. Throughout the night he and his men were subjected to a deadly cross fire from enemy machine guns and at daybreak a strong counterattack was launched against him. Heroically leading a small force against the flank of the attacking party, Lieutenant Kibler succeeded in routing a greatly superior force. He courageously continued to lead his men until so weakened by the effects of the gas that he lost consciousness.

AEF Citation for Gallantry in Action
For gallantry in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918, in leading a small detachment through heavy artillery fire to the attack.
2 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
The twenty men above named performed their duties as a gun section under peculiarly trying conditions with fidelity and courage of a high degree. Taking up an isolated position in view of the enemy, and unsupported by infantry, they held it under terrific bombardment for twelve hours on June 8, 1918. This near Chateau-Thierry.
2 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
After the Infantry had fallen back from a barrage's fire, they took their machine gun forward on the line and enfiladed the advancing enemy with deadly effect, successfully breaking the enemy attack. This at Blanc Mont, October 4, 1918.
French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
During the attack of July 19, 1918, near Vierzy, he led his men to the assault under violent artillery fire.

Wounded severely 10/14/18
AEF Citation for Gallantry in Action
For gallantry in action in the Bois de Malaument, France, October 14, 1918, although himself severely wounded, he dressed the wounds of another soldier under heavy shell fire.
3 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
On the morning of July 15th, 1918, did, near the Marne, southeast of Chateau-Thierry, most excellent work in giving aid to the wounded. With the very opening of the barrage there were many wounded. Private King fearlessly exposed himself in order to aid those of his own battalion and the infantry who were nearby. He moved about constantly under heavy shell fire caring for the wounded and carrying them to safety. His coolness was an inspiration to those who worked with him.

Northeast of Nantillois, France, Oct. 12, 1918.
While the Infantry was falling back 200 meters to take cover from heavy artillery and machine-gun fire he, with his platoon sergeant, stayed at their one remaining machine gun, which they continued to operate for 45 minutes, until the Infantry position was reestablished. They not only successfully covered withdrawal of the Infantry, but also captured a German machine gun and three prisoners.
French Legion of Honor (Chevalier)
No specific citation.
French Croix de Guerre (Palm)
An officer of admirable courage. When the infantry retired under artillery and machine-gun fire, he with one sergeant, remained in position to serve the machine gun, staying 45 minutes until the infantry position was reestablished.

79 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action Sergeant Krause, after his Platoon Commander, two sergeants, two corporals and five privates had been wounded by high explosive, showed exceptional courage and ability in assembling the balance of his platoon, leading them forward through heavy fire at Montfaucon, setting a splendid example to the members of his platoon by his disregard of personal safety.

Distinguished Service Cross
Near Bois-de-Consenvoye and Bois-de-Grande-Montagne, France, Oct. 8-16, 1918.
On Oct. 8 he led his platoon through machine-gun and rifle fire in an advance which resulted in the capture of 300 prisoners and 12 machine guns. On the morning of Oct. 16 he volunteered, with one sergeant, and straightened out the line of an adjacent unit. His movements were under constant machine-gun fire, and so close to the enemy that he, with his sergeant, captured two prisoners while accomplishing their mission.

War Dept Citation for Gallantry in Action

At Bois-de-Consenvoye, France, Oct. 8-9, 1918.

As regimental adjutant he voluntarily assisted the passage of ambulances over a road which had been partially destroyed by enemy fire. Under his direction many wounded men were evacuated to hospital, this work being accomplished under intense enemy machine-gun and artillery fire. The courage, coolness, and marked devotion to duty of Captain Lane greatly inspired the men with whom he served and doubtless saved the lives of many wounded men.

War Dept Citation for Gallantry in Action
At Bois de Consenvoye, France, Oct. 10, 1918.
With complete disregard for his own safety he voluntarily and repeatedly carried messages from his company post of command to battalion headquarters and thus assisted materially in the successful advance of the organization to which he was attached. The bravery displayed served as an inspiring example of soldierly conduct to the members of his company.

Distinguished Service Cross
For extraordinary heroism in command of a raiding party against the enemy trenches near Balschwiller on the morning of Aug. 31, 1918, leading the advance through the enemy wire, being the last to quit the enemy trenches, personally assisting in carrying the wounded back through the enemy counter-barrage, and remaining all day of Aug. 31 in a shell hole in No Man's Land in order to assist all wounded to return to our line.
29 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
July 31, 1918.
Displayed remarkable coolness and courage in organizing and handling the defense of his sector when attacked.
Belgian Order of Leopold (Chevalier)
For extraordinary heroism in action near Balschwiller, Alsace, August 31, 1918. Capt. Lee while commanding a raiding party against the enemy trenches, led the advance through the enemy wire and was the last to leave the enemy trenches. He personally assisted in carrying the wounded back through the enemy counter barrage and remained all day in a shell hole in No Man's Land in order to assist all wounded to return to our lines.
French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
On July 31, 1918, in a raid directed against one of the posts of his company sector he displayed remarkable calmness, coolness and courage in organizing the defense of the point attacked, taking a rifle himself and giving thus the finest example to his men.

French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star) An admirably courageous officer, who, in a raid into the enemy lines, was the first into the German trench in spite of the losses suffered by his detachment. After having inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, he was the last to leave, and not wishing to abandon three wounded men, he remained with them in No Man's Land during a whole day before being able to regain our lines.

Navy Cross
For extraordinary heroism as a member of the crews of boats sent from the U.S.S. Wanderer to the rescue of men from the Florence

H., which vessel, loaded with explosives, was burned in the harbor of Quiberon on the night of the 17th of April, 1918. Almost immediately after the outbreak of fire, the water in the vicinity of the Florence H. was covered with burning powder boxes, many of which exploded, scattering flames throughout the wreckage. The crews of the Wanderer's boats drove their boats into the burning mass without thought of danger to themselves, and, assisted by boats from other ships present in the harbor, succeeded in saving the lives of many men, who, but for the help so promptly and heroically extended, must have perished in the wreckage.

9 Inf Brig Citation for Gallantry in Action
During the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, these men displayed the utmost zeal and devotion to duty as members of Company Headquarters Liaison personnel. Despite intense enemy artillery, machine gun and rifle fire, these men delivered messages to the different platoons of the company throughout the engagement. By their utter disregard of personal safety their Company Commander was able to keep in constant touch with the units of his company which were attached to various units within the regiment and by their bravery contributed in a large measure to the success of the engagement.

Distinguished Service Cross
Near Verdun, France, Oct. 16, 1918. Lieutenant Lewis, although ill at the time, led his platoon in an attack in the Bois-de-Grande Montagne against numerous enemy machine-gun nests and quickly dispatched the enemy troops therein. Finally he advanced alone and captured an enemy sniper from a tree and brought him into our lines. He remained with his company until Oct. 18, when he collapsed with shell shock and exhaustion.

Wounded slightly 7/19/18
French Croix de Guerre (Palm)
On July 19, 1918, near Courchamps, at the head of a platoon of his company, he skillfully succeeded in taking a strong nest of machine guns, thus permitting his battalion to advance and to inflict heavy losses on the enemy. Wounded in the leg he refused to be evacuated. Was forced to leave his post after receiving a second wound.

For services near Gildwater, France, July 31, 1918.
29 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
July 31, 1918.
Displayed remarkable coolness and courage during an enemy raid in covering the withdrawal of the wounded.
French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
On duty as liaison agent on July 31, 1918, when an outpost of his company was attacked, he contributed vigorously to the defense with grenades. He maintained communication during the whole combat and voluntarily joined a reconnaissance sent to explore ground overrun by the enemy.

As a runner during the operations on the Escaut from October 31 to November 11, 1918, he performed his duty with devotion. On several occasions he carried messages under a violent fire of artillery and machine guns and at times made trips across heavily bombarded ground in order to facilitate the advance of the troops.

29 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
Displayed remarkable courage and devotion to duty October 8, 1918, North of Verdun, when, unaided and alone, and armed only with a stone which he held as if it were a grenade, he captured a party of six of the enemy and marched them to the rear.

Special Letter of Commendation
While serving at the U.S. Naval Air Station, Pensacola, on Sept. 24, 1918, when a flying boat was submerged, he with another man went overboard and under the wreckage in an attempt to save the lives of the occupants. Also on Nov. 23, 1917, when a seaplane crashed into the water, he with two others on a sea sled sent to the rescue went overboard and under the wreckage in attempts to free the pilot.

French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star) Citation of 637 Sec Amb Serv. During the combats of June 9, 10, and 11, 1918, while under command of First Lieutenant MacPherson (American) and of Second Lieutenant Huret (French), this section gave evidence of the finest qualities of cool resolution, of high conception of duty, and of the most noble spirit of sacrifice. After losing eight ambulances and three drivers in the bombardment of C———— and while under machine gun fire, continued to come up to the first line to evacuate the wounded. It withdrew only on direct order from the surgeon in charge after having kept up its service of removing the wounded for three days, exerting itself under the most perilous conditions, to the limit of the strength of its personnel.

Distinguished Service Cross
Near Verdun, France, Oct. 11, 1918. He volunteered and left his place of safety, making his way 100 yards in advance of our lines to the aid of wounded men. At the time the enemy was delivering terrific machine-gun and artillery fire, but he continued and assisted one comrade to a dressing station. He returned and helped the other men to places of safety.
French Croix de Guerre (Gilt Star)
Under a deadly artillery and machine-gun fire he went to the assistance of the wounded out in advance of the front lines bringing them in to shelter one after the other.

Distinguished Service Medal
While in action with the 58th Infantry Brigade, 29th Division, north of Verdun, 1918, in the absence of a regularly detailed brigade adjutant he performed the exacting duties of that office in addition to his duties as commander of the machine-gun battalion under circumstances requiring exceptional courage, tactical judgment, initiative, and endurance, all of which he displayed to a marked degree. By his brilliant professional attainments, his untiring energy, and keen foresight, he contributed largely to the subsequent successes of his brigade and division. He handled with rare skill and in a masterful manner the multifarious duties devolving upon him in a position of great responsibility.

French Croix de Guerre (Bronze Star) On June 10, and 11, 1918, the lines having been cut during the night, he carried messages, crossing shelled and mustard gassed zones, informing the artillery of the progress of the attack, and thus facilitating the adjustment of the fire.

29 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
Displayed remarkable courage and devotion to duty October 8, 1918, to October 29, 1918, North of Verdun, when, as motorcycle rider, he rode day and night through shellfire, and though his machine was riddled by shrapnel, he maintained liaison by continuing on foot until his machine was replaced.

Distinguished Service Cross
Near Jaulny, France, Sept. 13, 1918. In plain view of the enemy he rode across a field to a friendly battery whose barrage was falling on the American trenches and stopped its fire, thereby permitting a reestablishment of the front line and saving many lives.
French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
While acting as liaison officer for his colonel, he fulfilled his different missions in contempt of danger under violent fire of artillery and machine guns. He worked unceasingly under conditions particularly difficult and dangerous.

2 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action During the action on June 6, 1918, while the company was temporarily halted in the woods of Hill 142, Sergeant Sims and Private Hathaway gave first aid to Sergeant Paul J. Robinnett who had been wounded in the chest and was lying in an exposed position swept by machine gun and rifle fire and high explosive shell, after which they moved him to shelter in a large shell hole in the shade. After the attainment of the objective, Private McClain voluntarily went to the rear several times for water, carrying all the canteens he could stagger along with, continually under artillery fire. On one of these trips he found Sergeant Robinnett and single-handed carried him to the dressing station.

Distinguished Service Cross
Near Verdun, France, Oct. 8-13, 1918.
In the Bois-de-Consenvoye, east of the Meuse, he, in command of his platoon, led his men under heavy machine-gun fire and captured approximately 500 prisoners, 3 field pieces, and many machine-guns. On October 13 he voluntarily exposed himself to warn his men against gas and was wounded by shrapnel. He refused to go to the hospital until ordered to do so by a medical officer.
French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
He continually displayed coolness and courage in leading his platoon against numerous machine-gun nests October 8-13, 1918. Was wounded October 13.

79 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
Sergt. McGarvey showed marked coolness and gallantry in action on the night of September 21-22, 1918, when commanding a half-platoon which came under fire for the first time, in repelling a raid made by a strong force of the enemy against his position, and by his coolness in directing the fire of each man under his command, was of great assistance in repelling the raid.
